Farm Senators Call for Showdown With FDR

PROBE OF PRICE, WAGE AGENCIES TO BE FORCED

Traditional mandates of Congress ignored, say aroused solons

"SUBSIDY" DRAWS FIRE

Wheat parity price of $1.34 and market sales at $1.02 are criticised

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—Farm state senators of both major parties today completed plans to force investigation of wage and price agencies operating under executive orders of President Roosevelt himself.

Charging that traditional mandates of Congress have been deliberately ignored and that millions in federal funds are being illegally distributed in the form of farm subsidies, they have called for a show-down with the White House on two fronts.

On the first front the issue is interpretation placed by the OPA, Attorney-General Biddle, the President and Economic Director James F. Byrnes on the wage and price stabilization amendment of October 22.

On the second front it is authority of the commodity credit corporation to buy wheat from producers at the parity price of $1.34 and sell it on the open market at approximately $1.02.

General Probe Planned

To force the investigation, Sens. Reed (R) Kas., and Gillette (D) Ia., were to introduce a resolution calling for the investigation to be financed from the contingent funds of the Senate.

"We are not going to stop with only one of the alphabetical agencies," Reed said. "We shall try to get at all of them."

To substantiate his position Reed quoted a telegram from the present Democratic candidate for governor of Kansas, W. H. Burke, indorsing protests on OPA flour price ceilings.

Position Indorsed

"From my personal experience in the livestock and grain business, I realize the importance and value of your position on legislation affecting these interests and I endorse your position with reference to ceilings and floors."

In reference to the ceilings on flour, Economic Director Byrnes admitted to the senate that the commodity credit corporation would lose a minimum of $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 in buying grain

$25,000 LIMIT JUMPS BARRIER

President's Act Breaks Promises Of Leaders In Both Houses

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—The amendment to the Price Control Act under which President Roosevelt placed a $25,000-a-year limit on salaries was enacted by Congress only 27 days ago with administration leaders in both the Senate and House assuring doubting members that this step would not be taken if they passed the legislation.

In fact, the man who managed the bill for the administration in the House—Chairman Henry B. Steagall (D) Ala., of the House Banking Committee—declared at one point in the proceedings that he did not believe "that the President of the United States would deliberately go against a clearly disclosed opinion of Congress" by interpreting the legislation as permitting him to order such a limitation.

Authority Lacking

Similarly, the man who managed the bill in the Senate—Sen. Prentiss M. Brown (D) Mich.—declared during debate that it was his judgment that no such authority was in the pending measure.

Their statements were disclosed today by an examination of transcripts of the proceedings which showed that at several points during the consideration of the legislation, doubt was expressed on this score but that each time the apprehension was allayed by the contention of administration leaders that this was not the intent in passing the bill.

The $25,000 innovation was first proposed by the CIO last year and subsequently was recommended by President Roosevelt to Congress for inclusion in the tax bill. This, Congress refused to do.

The Brown-Steagall amendment to the Price Control Act was started through Congress last month in response to President Roosevelt's ultimatum that

7-DAY FURLOUGH FOR DRAFTEES PUT IN EFFECT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—Reduction of the furlough period for men inducted into the Army from 14 days to seven days was announced Thursday by Secretary of War Stimson. The move becomes effective in November.

These Are Survivors of the Sunken Aircraft Carrier Wasp

A few of the survivors of the aircraft carrier Wasp, sunk in the Guadalcanal area by torpedoes from a U. S. destroyer after it had been torpedoed and set afire by Japanese submarines, are shown above. They are aboard a warship, one of those which effected the rescue of "approximately 90 percent of the ship's personnel," according to a Navy announcement. Normal complement of the carrier was 1,800 men.

Dunkel Quits Prison Pardon

Parole of Ralph Edward Dunkel, 24, of Walin township, from the federal reformatory near Chillicothe to a conscientious objector's camp at Walhalla, Mich., was revealed Thursday following investigation of reports that Dunkel, who refused to bear arms for his country, was no longer in the U. S. prison to which he had been sentenced last January by Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood.

Judge Underwood's court disclosed that it had nothing to do with the parole and that it is still seeking information concerning how and why and by whom the parole was obtained.

"Orders for the parole must have come from Washington," said an employee of the judge's office who did not wish his name disclosed.

Date on which the parole became effective was July 23, only six months after Judge Underwood had "thrown the book" at the graduate of Ohio State university by sentencing him to serve five years in prison for refusing to enter service.

Under federal law persons serving five year terms are not eligible for parole of any sort until they have served at least 20 months.

However, Dunkel is now at Walhalla, site of a Church of the Brethren camp. He recently enjoyed a furlough at his home in Waln township.

The spokesman in Judge Underwood's office said that Dunkel's parole is not the only one about which his office is seeking information, declaring that four others who had refused to join the Army had been paroled under similar circumstances.

"We don't quite know what it is all about," he was quoted as saying.

Dunkel was sentenced by Judge Underwood last January 27 after he pleaded guilty of failing to report for induction after being assigned by the local draft board.

He had protested his classification in I-A and had appealed for classification as a conscientious objector. When given the I-A-O rating, which would have put him in a conscientious objector's camp, he still refused to report.

Arrested by authorities from the district court, he was indicted for failing to report for service.

The Brown-Steagall amendment to the Price Control Act was started through Congress last month in response to President Roosevelt's ultimatum that

INQUIRY STARTS INTO ACCIDENT FATAL TO 16

DETROIT, Oct. 29—Wayne county Prosecutor William E. Dowling today called together officials of the Detroit Street Railway and Grand Trunk railroad in an effort to fix responsibility for the train-bus crash which killed 16 persons and injured 27 yesterday.

The tragedy occurred when a Detroit bound Grand Trunk passenger train hit a crowded DSR. Four of the victims were students less than 21 years old.

The driver, William F. Clos, 25, was uninjured. He has been suspended from his position and held pending further investigation.

Clos had stopped the bus at the railroad crossing in suburban Hamtramck to allow a freight car to pass. As he started across the tracks, the passenger train bore down from the opposite direction. Clos told officials that he did not see the oncoming passenger train because the passengers obscured his vision.

The watchman at the crossing asserted that the blinker warning lights were still flashing when the bus started to cross the tracks. There is no protective gate at the crossing.

F. D. R. ORDERS PROBE OF OHIO PENSION OFFICE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29—President Roosevelt today ordered a federal investigation of the Ohio division of aid for the aged based on charges made by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson last week.

Announcement of the investigation was made by Ferguson who said he was told by Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretary, that David E. Niles, special representative of the President, would conduct the investigation.

URGENCY OF REPLENISHMENTS STRESSED BY AVIATORS WHO DROPPED 79 JAPS

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 29—Heavier artillery, more planes and torpedo boats are needed by United States forces on Guadalcanal and if they receive this equipment in time they will be able to hold their captured positions, four naval fliers who just returned from the Solomon islands declared today.

They were members of a squadron which accounted for 96 Japanese planes. The total bag of the four amounted to 17. Lieut. Hayden Jansen, 31, of St. Paul, Minn., shot down eight; Lieut. David Richardson, 28, of Meridian, Miss., three; Lieut. Walter E. Clark, 27, of Maywood, Ill., four; and Lieut. Frank O. Green, 24, of St. Louis, Mo., two.

Their squadron definitely destroyed 79 Jap planes and badly damaged 16 others. It was under command of Lieut. Cmdr. Leroy D. C. Simpler. They lost 11 men killed and 11 wounded.

AMERICANS SURPRISED

Lieut. Richardson said that the first shelling from a Japanese land battery at the outset of the latest enemy counter-offensive came as a surprise from heavy caliber guns. The guns could not be located immediately and the shelling continued for four hours.

The shells scored several hits on Henderson airfield, but the damage could be readily repaired. The artillery assault was followed by an attack by Jap bombers.

While U. S. planes attempted to locate and silence the artillery they were engaged by Jap planes and the aerial dogfight resulted in heavy losses, according to Richardson.

So the soles of her shoes have worn thin. While she could undoubtedly get a new pair, or have her worn shoes resoled, Mrs. Roosevelt preferred not to draw on England's scant supplies of leather, said her secretary and traveling companion Mrs. Malvina Thompson.

Last night Mrs. Roosevelt attended the performance of "Flare Path," London's hit, at the Apollo theatre and stole the show. As she entered the special box reserved for her party the audience rose and applauded heartily while the orchestra gave out with "The Star Spangled Banner."

The theatre performance brought to an end another busy day during which she called on emigre kings and statesmen of overrun lands. Accompanied by Anthony J. Drexel-Biddle, American ambassador to the governments-in-exile, Mrs. Roosevelt met King Haakon of Norway, King George of Greece, King Peter of Yugoslavia, and President Raczynski of Poland and Prime Minister Sikorski and Foreign Minister Raczynski.

Before her visit ends Mrs. Roosevelt plans to call on Queen Wilhelmina, and Dr. Eduard Beneš and Jan Masaryk of the Czechoslovakian government.

Reports reaching Washington indicate that the King is near death as a result of injuries sustained when he fell from his horse in Copenhagen on October 19.

While there is no confirmation of rumors that the Nazis engineered the "accident," authoritative quarters in Washington would not be surprised if such was the case.

In any event, it is felt that the terrific strain which King Christian was under prior to the "accident" weakened him to such an extent that he is unlikely to recover.

Although little has been heard about it, the King, authoritative sources said, has been waging a fearless fight for many months to prevent Germany from Nazifying Denmark.

The Germans and the Danes are known to hate King Christian for his determined resistance to their efforts to make Denmark an effective ally of Hitler's new order in Europe.

Just prior to the King's "accident" fall from his horse—the details of which have not been made known—relations between Germany and Denmark entered the most acute stage since the Nazi invasion of that country in April, 1940.

This crisis developed over the King's refusal to accede to German "suggestions" that Danish arms be armed; that Danish "volunteers" be sent to the German-Finnish front; and that Danish skilled workers be sent to German factories.

Desperate attempt to relieve the 66-day-old siege of Stalingrad was launched by Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's army northwest of the Volga river city today.

The Germans replied with slashing attacks against his forces. But eight Nazi thrusts were driven off and Timoshenko's troops succeeded in driving a number of wedges into the German lines.

Timoshenko sent his forces surging forward against both the right and left flank of Nazi siege troops at Stalingrad in an apparent attempt to repeat the "miracle of Moscow" and save the city from German hands.

It was also disclosed in London that new units of American Marines had arrived in the British Isles.

NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT, SAYS GENERAL

GEN. DOUGLAS M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Oct. 29—Gen. Douglas MacArthur set to rest today all speculation that he might one day aspire to be president of the United States by declaring publicly that he had no political ambitions whatsoever.

"I started as a soldier and shall finish as one," the supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific said.

"The only hope and ambition I have is for the victory of our cause. If I survive this campaign I shall return to retirement from which this great struggle called me."

"I have noted a statement in the morning paper that 'political Washington largely is responsible for the establishment of two separate commands in the Pacific partly because of the conservative opposition which launched a MacArthur for President campaign,'" the general said.

"I have no political ambitions whatsoever. Any suggestions to the contrary must be regarded merely as amiable gestures of good will dictated by friendship."

IMMORTAL BARD MAKES FRIENDS WITH SOLDIERS

Leave it to Dr. Edwin L. Montgomery, now a captain in Uncle Sam's Army, to come up with something new. Dr. Montgomery, called to Camp Shelby, Miss., shortly after war clouds began to gather, has written to local friends that his outfit will return from the war probably better read in Shakespearean literature than any other in service.

Captain Montgomery writes that because of shortage of reading material all members of his outfit have been borrowing and reading copies of Shakespeare, he took with him. Montgomery writes that he gets "quite a kick" out of hearing a Brooklynesque ask: "Say, Cap, what does this bold man by his woid?"

Captain Montgomery's present residence is not disclosed although it is known to be in the South Pacific.

Because of the shortage of reading materials, friends of the physician are being asked to send magazines and other reading matter to him for distribution among his men. Captain Montgomery's address is: 112th Medical Battalion, APO 37, Company B, care of postmaster, San Francisco, Cal.

The doctor writes that because of the shortage, men in the camp fall over each other trying to obtain newspapers and any other matter which reaches them. He has appointed a "librarian," the biggest and toughest man in the outfit to see that each man gets to read something from the small "library" available.

Americans At Guadalcanal Can Hold Out If Supplied, Naval Airmen Say

Transports Sunk

One of eight transports was sunk en route and another was badly damaged. Five succeeded in disembarking troops who immediately exerted increased pressure on the American defenses.

The Navy men referred repeatedly to the shortages of equipment and supplies, emphasizing the urgency of replenishments. They said the Marines on Guadalcanal were extremely capable and could hold retail prices within reach of a splendid job.

Air forces consistently outnumbered our forces, they said. The ability of Jap Zero naval fighters to fly long distances was attributed to the auxiliary gas tanks enabling them to travel from Rabaul, New Britain, to Guadalcanal and still have sufficient fuel for a half hour of fighting before attempting a return.

The Japs followed a definite daily pattern for two weeks prior to opening of their offensive. They shelled steadily at night to cause the Americans loss of sleep and airmen made regular raids about noon time.

Gillette and Reed concede that this plan gives the farmer a satisfactory return for his crop, but they point out that the money is made up of tax funds which come from all the people.

Principle At Stake

"There is no sanction in the law for any subsidy," Gillette said. "This is just a way of granting a subsidy indirectly. I feel that there is at stake here an even more important principle. It is whether an executive agency may exercise powers not expressly granted to it by Congress."

In addition to this, the President has discretionary power to order the commodity credit corporation to make loans up to 90 percent of parity when the producer puts his milling grain under seal as collateral. Loans on grain used for feeding and other rough purposes remain limited to 85 percent.

The farm bloc feels that in permitting 90 percent loans it can avoid a subsidy and that the discretionary power was granted for that purpose. They hoped thus to see a natural rise to parity levels as producers kept their grain under seal and off the market.

Sens. Wheeler (D) Mont., and Bilbo (D) Miss., said what they desired was an economic structure that would give the farmer a fair price for his commodities and still hold retail prices within reach of the consumer.

Bilbo said it was ridiculous that sweet potatoes should bring only $1 a bushel in Mississippi and $4 in the east. White potatoes, he added, follow relatively the same course, bringing $2 at retail in the producing areas and $6 in the city markets.

I feel that the OPA and other agencies should get at the middleman," Wheeler said. "He should be allowed a fair margin of profit for handling and processing, but as things are now he gets most of the food dollar."

Sen. Shipstead (R) Minn., said he didn't see why the price of wheat could not be pegged at parity.

F. B. Enters Fight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—The American Farm Bureau Federation today launched a campaign to stop what it termed a "concerted plan" on the part of the war manpower commission and other administration leaders to place "impractical unnecessary social controls on the farmers under the guise of the war effort."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the powerful farm organization, revealed that the federation will demand the appearance of Paul McNutt, manpower chief, before the federal economic board tomorrow to answer charges that the farm labor shortage situation is being used to foster "new deal regulations."

Referring to McNutt's instructions to the agriculture department to stabilize farm wages, O'Neal said he told economic director James F. Byrnes, that:

"This is a part of a program to fasten on agriculture impractical social controls under the guise of the war effort and in violation of policies established by Congress with respect to agriculture labor."

O'Neal further maintained that the recent plan to alleviate the farm labor shortage by the importation of Mexican workers "has been seriously jeopardized" by a "far-reaching program" of fixing minimum wages and hours.

"Miracle Of Moscow" May Be Repeated By Soviet Volga Defenders

(Continued from Page One) ed American naval units were maneuvering to intercept the powerful Japanese fleet concentration last reported about 400 miles northwest of Guadalcanal island where American Marines and Army forces still held the Japanese invaders in check.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's land-based bombers hammered again at enemy bases at Rabaul and Gasmata, on New Britain island, and on Buka island at the northern fringe of the Solomons. Great fires were started at Buka and two warships heavily damaged at Rabaul.

Soviet bombers smashed at Helsinki during the night, and Bucharest, Romania, reported a 30-minute alert.

American bombers from the China squadrons blasted the Japanese airfield at Lashio in North Burma.

London disclosed that 80 big Lancaster bombers had carried out the daylight raid on Milan, and reports from neutral countries said 330 firebombs were dropped in the city following the devastating bombing. Estimates of the dead ran as high as 5,000.

More Marines In Britain

It was also disclosed in London that new units of American Marines had arrived in the British Isles.

NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT, SAYS GENERAL

GEN. DOUGLAS M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Oct. 29.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur set to rest today all speculation that he might one day aspire to be president of the United States by declaring publicly that he had no political ambitions whatsoever.

"I started as a soldier and shall finish as one," the supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific said.

"The only hope and ambition I have is for the victory of our cause. If I survive this campaign I shall return to retirement from which this great struggle called me."

I have noted a statement in the morning paper that "political Washington largely is responsible for the establishment of two separate commands in the Pacific partly because of the conservative opposition which launched a MacArthur for President campaign," the general said.

"I have no political ambitions whatsoever. Any suggestions to the contrary must be regarded merely as amiable gestures of good will dictated by friendship."

IMMORTAL BARD MAKES FRIENDS WITH SOLDIERS

Leave it to Dr. Edwin L. Montgomery, now a captain in Uncle Sam's Army, to come up with something new. Dr. Montgomery, called to Camp Shelby, Miss., shortly after war clouds began to gather, has written to local friends that his outfit will return from the war probably better read in Shakespearean literature than any other in service.

Captain Montgomery writes that because of shortage of reading material all members of his outfit have been borrowing and reading copies of Shakespeare, he took with him. Montgomery writes that he gets "quite a kick" out of hearing a Brooklynese ask: "Say, Cap, what does this bold mean by dis woid?"

Captain Montgomery's present residence is not disclosed although it is known to be in the South Pacific.

Because of the shortage of reading materials, friends of the physician are being asked to send magazines and other reading matter to him for distribution among his men. Captain Montgomery's address is: 112th Medical Battalion, APO 37, Company B, care of postmaster, San Francisco, Cal.

The doctor writes that because of the shortage, men in the camp fall over each other trying to obtain newspapers and any other matter which reaches them. He has appointed a "librarian," the biggest and toughest man in the outfit to see that each man gets to read something from the small "library" available.

DRAFTEE APPEALS

Notice of the appeal of the I-A classification assigned to Albert Leslie Beathard of Deercreek township has been filed with the Pickaway County Selective Service Board. Beathard is in I-A with a stay of induction until January 1. His employer, John H. Dunlap Sr., of Williamsport, is seeking a 2-A classification.

Transports Sunk

One of eight transports was sunk en route and another was badly damaged. Five succeeded in disembarking troops who immediately exerted increased pressure on the American defenses.

The Navy men referred repeatedly to the shortages of equipment and supplies, emphasizing the urgency of replenishments. They said the Marines on Guadalcanal were extremely capable and doing a splendid job.

Jap air forces consistently outnumbered our forces, they said. The ability of Jap Zero naval fighters to fly long distances was attributed to the auxiliary gas tanks enabling them to travel from Rabaul, New Britain, to Guadalcanal and still have sufficient fuel for a half hour of fighting before attempting return.

The Japs followed a definite daily pattern for two weeks prior to opening of their offensive. They shelled steadily at night to cause the Americans loss of sleep and airmen made regular raids about noon time.

GREEKS SPEED GUERRILLA WAR AGAINST NAZIS

LONDON, Oct. 29—Sharply intensified guerrilla warfare against the Nazis in the northwest corner of Greece was reported in dispatches to Greek authorities in London today. Especially heavy fighting is going on near the Yugoslav border where patriots are attempting to join forces with General Mikhaelovitch.

The partition action involves land in Walnut township and property in Circleville.

Named as defendants are Henry and Link M. Mader, Neil C. Steagall, Florence M. Fissell, Carlisle Moffitt, John Moffitt, Samuel Moffitt, James P. Moffitt, Ethel Merz, Rose Graumlich, Florence Hedges, Eleanor C. and Mary E. Snyder, Helen F. Eisass and Mary Pintus.

The partition action involves land in Walnut township and property in Circleville.

Limit Plan Denied

When the text of the House bill was made public, Steagall was asked by newspapermen if this provision could not be so interpreted as to allow the President to carry out his plan for a $25,000 limitation. Steagall replied that it could not and explained that the provision was necessary so that cases of gross injustice or hardship could be adjusted by either an increase or decrease in salary or wages.

Three days later, when the bill was before the House Rules Committee, Rep. Cox (D) Ga., asked Steagall point blank if the President could limit salaries to $25,000 a year.

Here is what Steagall replied:

"I do not think so. I think the record will show that such is outside of legislative intent; and I do not believe that the President of the United States would deliberately go against a clearly disclosed opinion of Congress. I can not think that."

"I know that he has some men advising him with whom I do not agree and whose judgment I do not always approve; but I am not prepared to say that the President is going to do anything under this proposed measure except what he understands the Congress intends him to do. This is a mandate and a guide for his action."

Gross Inequities

"Gross inequities" are words that have well-established definitions not only in the dictionaries but in the law books and this language carries a very definite guide to the President. This standard could not be disregarded without gross disregard of the expressed will of Congress.

Legal experts in the Senate and House believe that the President's executive order be put to court test that it would provide considerable argument as to the intent of Congress.

It has become almost tradition for the Supreme Court to take judicial notice of the "legislative intent" of Congress where disputes arise over interpretation in statutes, the most notable case being the decision in which the AAA law was declared invalid.

When the bill was being debated in the Senate, Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., expressed the belief that the language could be interpreted to permit the President to adjust salaries downward "solely for the purpose of correcting gross inequities, which means for social-reform purposes," and asked Brown if Mr. Roosevelt could put a $25,000 limit on salaries. Brown answered:

"It is my judgment that the authority is not contained in a bill which stabilizes salaries as of September 15, 1942.

"I will say to the senator that

Junk Contributed in Big One Day Roundup Boosts Total Of Fund

CHECK IS PRESENTED Detailed Report On Various Material Presented By City Committee

Pickaway County Community Chest, which is slowly moving toward its $49,680 goal, received a contribution Wednesday of $1,231.55, this amount being the total valuation of scrap salvaged by residents of Circleville in their big roundup two weeks ago.

The amount was determined by Herman Hill and Dan McClain, directors of the salvage drive, working with Circleville Iron and Metal officials. All salvaged materials were weighed on the Raston-Purina company scales.

The check for the full amount was paid to Robert G. Colville, Community Chest treasurer, by Mr. Hill and Mr. McClain following receipt of it from Harry M. Gordon, operator of the iron and metal firm.

The size of the scrap pile and its valuation fell somewhat short of estimates, but it did add a nice chunk of money to the Community Chest drive. Earlier estimate on the size of the scrap pile, which occupied West Franklin street at City Hall, was approximately 200 tons, but this was cut almost in half when employees of the Circleville Iron and Metal started weeding out unusable materials.

The salvage committee issued the following report which shows how much was received from each salvage material placed on the scrap pile:

Rags, 2,324 pounds at 1.5 cents a pound, $34.86.

Old school bell, 400 pounds of brass at 10 cents, $40.

Mixed paper, 1,350 pounds at 25 cents per hundredweight, $3.38.

Newspaper, 410 pounds at 25 cents per hundredweight, $1.23.

Corrugated paper, 540 pounds at 30 cents per hundredweight, $1.62.

Magazines, 2,280 pounds at 50 cents per hundredweight, $11.40.

Auto tires and rubber, 3,500 pounds at one cent a pound, $35.

Batteries, four at 75 each, $3.

Light copper, 206 pounds at seven cents per pound, $14.42.

Yellow brass, 284 pounds at five cents per pound, $14.20.

Light brass, 559 pounds at three cents per pound, $16.77.

Aluminum, 261 pounds at eight cents per pound, $20.88.

Auto radiators, 102 pounds at five cents per pound, $5.10.

Heavy lead, 560 pounds at four cents per pound, $14.40.

Sheet iron, 63,030 pounds at $7 per ton, $185.61.

Scrap iron, 125,320 pounds at $13 per ton, $145.58.

Remaining trash, 3,020 pounds at 50 cents per pound, $15.10.

IRVIN PATRICK TRAPS COYOTES NEAR NAPOLEON

Local Man Removes Menace To Poultry, Livestock In Farming District

LOCAL HUNTERS FAILED

Circleville Expert Increases Scalp Total Of Killers To 1,122

Irvin Patrick of near Circleville, an employee of the state conservation department and now an aide to Clarence Francis in Pickaway county conservation work, has been doing an excellent job in the area surrounding Napoleon, O. Patrick is credited with ending a menace to farmers in the community by destroying two coyotes.

Patrick was called to Napoleon when residents there reported finding traces of wolves. The conservation officer started to investigate and set traps in various places. The first night his traps were out he caught a female coyote, which he said was about four years old and weighed 50 pounds. Five nights later he caught another, younger one. He brought the pelts home with him and is showing them to his friends.

The coyotes had been destroying sheep, chickens and pigs. Patrick said, over a period of several months. Where they came from he did not know.

Patrick had been employed by the federal government in Colorado for three years as a game hunter before returning to Ohio. He was employed by the conservation department during the last summer at Buckeye Lake.

Residents of the Napoleon district had conducted several searches for the animals which had been destroying stock. They believed that wolves were doing the damage, and had killed several younger animals which they thought were wolves. Patrick said that the animals slain were probably offspring from the female coyote he had trapped. He remained in the vicinity for several days after the coyotes were trapped. No stock had been bothered since Patrick caught the animals.

Patrick said that during his government work in Colorado he had trapped 1,120 coyotes, the two trapped at Napoleon increasing his total to 1,122.

SALES TAX RECEIPTS OF COUNTY SHOW INCREASE

Sales tax receipts in Pickaway county continue to score gains from time to time with the total of sales for the week ending October 17 jumping ahead of the same week in 1941 by nearly $100. In 1942 the October 17 week totalled $1,442.49 compared with $1,356.27 in the same week a year ago.

The 1942 total, however, remains somewhat behind the 1941 mark, comparative figures being $62,192.05 for 1942 and $72,183.14 for 1941.

Total collections in Ohio for the year up to October 17 are down from $47,703,563.34 in 1941 to $41,963,323.25 in 1942.

Other nearby counties showing gains for the October 17 week were Clinton, Fayette and Madison, while Ross, Perry, Fairfield and Hocking counties fell under their 1941 reports.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

representative Patrick H. Drewry of Virginia, chairman of the committee, rose in the House next day to report that the letter should have gone to Representative Joseph L. Pfeiffer of New York, a faithful Democrat. There had been a mixup, due to the similarity of names.

"I hope the letter will not lull the gentleman into a sense of false security and that he will make the best fight he can," added the Virginian, "for, so help me God, I am going to beat him if I can."

Meantime, the individual responsible for the mixup, Victor H. Harding, secretary of the committee, bantered: "I guess we erred on the side of the national unity."

GAS MASKS OR PARKS?

To make a sealing compound for gas masks, the War Department requires a certain wax obtained from the candelilla plant, found only in hot, arid regions. Charles T. Wilson, New York millionaire, found candelilla plants in the "big bend" country of West Texas, and leased some property for exploitation of the plant.

He put up a factory near Marathon, Tex., and proceeded to gather the weeds, which heretofore nobody had been interested in, except the burros.

But officials of the State of Texas intervened, saying the property was desired as part of the Big Bend National Park. Wilson and his wax gatherers were ordered off the premises. So now the deer and the antelope, instead of gas-mask wearers, will have the benefit of the candelilla.

GOOD NEIGHBOR

Before tire and gas rationing, Eurico Penteado, financial attaché of the Brazilian Embassy, was one of the most invertebrate motorists in the U. S. A. He thought little of driving from New York to New Orleans and back in a single week.

One day just outside New York he was arrested for speeding. Penteado admitted he was guilty, and the officer said he would have to give him a ticket.

"I suppose I deserve one," said the Brazilian diplomat, not revealing he was immune from arrest, "but it will spoil my record. I've driven 132,000 miles in the United States and never got a ticket."

"Oh then, I won't spoil your record," said the cop. "By the way what's your job?"

"I'm a diplomat." "Let's see your credentials," said the cop, obviously skeptical. Penteado showed them.

"Well, what do you want to waste my time for? I couldn't give you a ticket if I wanted to."

"Sure you could," said the Brazilian attaché. "When I'm in your country I believe in obeying your laws."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Karl Bickel, dynamic ex-boss of the United Press, tried to arrange for a small steamer-sized newspaper for U. S. troops in Guatemala who have no other means of getting early news from home.

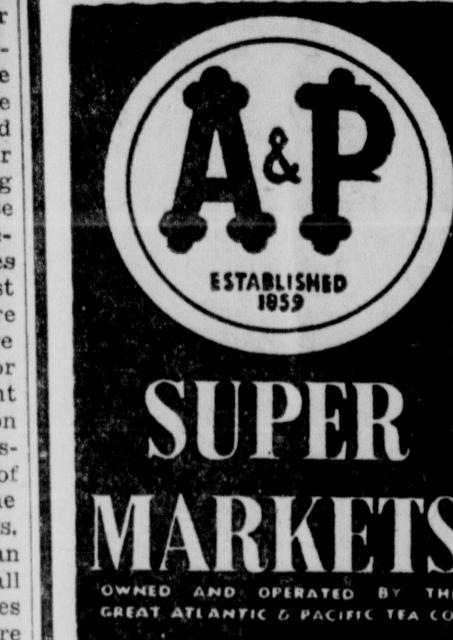

Mrs. W. G. Miesse and sister, Mrs. D. M. Hopkins, of Cleveland visited Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Miesse and family and Mr. and Mrs. Beryle Miesse and son Thursday in Columbus.

Mrs. E. H. Hampp, grandson Ned D. Hampp, and Mrs. Chris Moore and sons and Mrs. C. E. Stein visited Elmer Hampp at Grant hospital, Columbus, Thursday noon. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kuhn and family.

Francis Leist, Mary Hastings and Ted Fausnaugh of Columbus and Jimmie Seimers of Canton spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Fausnaugh and family.

The Rockefeller Committee was glad to put up $10,000 to pay for the news-sheet, but the State Department, which has to give Rockefeller permission every time he wants to sneeze, has held things up for weeks. The War Production Board is angling through the Office of Defense Transportation to get the oil pipelines out from under Harold Ickes. Babies are arriving so fast in Washington that hospitals are packed and hospital directors are reducing the usual 14-day stay for obstetrical cases to only eight days. That was one reason the latest offspring of five-times-married Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina was born in the home of its Grandmama, Mrs. Evelyn "Hope Diamond" McLean. The Russians, who were all set to buy two old oil refineries at Longview and Tyler, Texas, are being switched over to buy the California refinery of Douglas Aircraft. For months the Russians have been trying to ship old refineries to Russia, set them up behind the lines, but got the royal run-around until recently.

SALES TAX RECEIPTS OF COUNTY SHOW INCREASE

Sales tax receipts in Pickaway county continue to score gains from time to time with the total of sales for the week ending October 17 jumping ahead of the same week in 1941 by nearly $100. In 1942 the October 17 week totalled $1,442.49 compared with $1,356.27 in the same week a year ago.

The 1942 total, however, remains somewhat behind the 1941 total, comparative figures being $62,192.05 for 1942 and $72,183.14 for 1941.

Total collections in Ohio for the year up to October 17 are down from $47,703,563.34 in 1941 to $41,963,323.25 in 1942.

Other nearby counties showing gains for the October 17 week were Clinton, Fayette and Madison, while Ross, Perry, Fairfield and Hocking counties fell under their 1941 reports.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The Rockefeller Committee was glad to put up $10,000 to pay for the news-sheet, but the State Department, which has to give Rockefeller permission every time he wants to sneeze, has held things up for weeks. The War Production Board is angling through the Office of Defense Transportation to get the oil pipelines out from under Harold Ickes. Babies are arriving so fast in Washington that hospitals are packed and hospital directors are reducing the usual 14-day stay for obstetrical cases to only eight days. That was one reason the latest offspring of five-times-married Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina was born in the home of its Grandmama, Mrs. Evelyn "Hope Diamond" McLean. The Russians, who were all set to buy two old oil refineries at Longview and Tyler, Texas, are being switched over to buy the California refinery of Douglas Aircraft. For months the Russians have been trying to ship old refineries to Russia, set them up behind the lines, but got the royal run-around until recently.

"I hope the letter will not lull the gentleman into a sense of false security and that he will make the best fight he can," added the Virginian, "for, so help me God, I am going to beat him if I can."

Meantime, the individual responsible for the mixup, Victor H. Harding, secretary of the committee, bantered: "I guess we erred on the side of the national unity."

GAS MASKS OR PARKS?

To make a sealing compound for gas masks, the War Department requires a certain wax obtained from the candelilla plant, found only in hot, arid regions. Charles T. Wilson, New York millionaire, found candelilla plants in the "big bend" country of West Texas, and leased some property for exploitation of the plant.

He put up a factory near Marathon, Tex., and proceeded to gather the weeds, which heretofore nobody had been interested in, except the burros.

But officials of the State of Texas intervened, saying the property was desired as part of the Big Bend National Park. Wilson and his wax gatherers were ordered off the premises. So now the deer and the antelope, instead of gas-mask wearers, will have the benefit of the candelilla.

GOOD NEIGHBOR

Before tire and gas rationing, Eurico Penteado, financial attaché of the Brazilian Embassy, was one of the most invertebrate motorists in the U. S. A. He found candelilla plants in the "big bend" country of West Texas, and leased some property for exploitation of the plant.

But officials of the State of Texas intervened, saying the property was desired as part of the Big Bend National Park. Wilson and his wax gatherers were ordered off the premises. So now the deer and the antelope, instead of gas-mask wearers, will have the benefit of the candelilla.

GRIFFITH SAYS GARNAAS' KICK • WAS LEGAL ONE

Conference Commissioner,
However, Says Masker
Erred In Ruling

PENALTY WAS IN ORDER

Minnesota's Boot In Final
Second Of Half Enough
To Edge Wolverines

CHICAGO, Oct. 29—Minnesota's hotly-disputed 16-to-14 football victory over the Michigan Wolverines at Minneapolis last Saturday still stood on the Western Conference record books today, but Referee James Masker was charged with an error on one of the crucial plays of the game.

The judgment came from Maj. John L. Griffith, Western Conference commissioner, who described the play, but omitted mention of Masker's name or his official position in the game. He prefaced his formal statement with the observation:

"College games never are played over and scores are not reversed." This settled at the outset that Minnesota's victory would stand.

The principal argument of Michigan partisans was that Bill Garnaas' drop kick for Minnesota in the closing seconds of the first half was illegal. This gave the Gophers the three points which turned out to be the margin of victory.

Maj. Griffith said that in his judgment Minnesota should have been penalized five yards for taking time out at this critical juncture, the Gophers having already had three times out, and that the clock should have been kept running.

Kick Prevented

He admitted orally that the nine seconds remaining might have been consumed in the stepping-off process, thus precluding the highly-essential drop kick, but he emphasized he had no wish to criticize the lapse in officiating.

Things were happening fast and there have been mistakes in other games under less confusing circumstances," he said. "I am not convinced that Michigan would have won if the error had not been committed, but it is reasonable to suppose that the half would have been ended before Garnaas kicked the field goal."

Another contention of the Michigan fans was that the drop kick was in fact not a drop kick at all, but merely an ordinary run-of-the-mine punt. Maj. Griffith dismissed this preposterously with the terse statement:

"The ball was drop kicked, not punted."

He said he formed this judgment through a study of the motion pictures of the game and from statements of responsible witnesses. Also, he said, there were only 11 Minnesota men in the vicinity of the play, not 12, as some had claimed.

The only known copy of the first printed collection of the laws of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, printed at Cambridge in 1648, is in the Huntington Library and Art Gallery at San Marino, near Los Angeles, Cal.

Maj. Griffith said that in his judgment Minnesota should have been penalized five yards for taking time out at this critical juncture, the Gophers having already had three times out, and that the clock should have been kept running.

Kick Prevented

He admitted orally that the nine seconds remaining might have been consumed in the stepping-off process, thus precluding the highly-essential drop kick, but he emphasized he had no wish to criticize the lapse in officiating.

Things were happening fast and there have been mistakes in other games under less confusing circumstances," he said. "I am not convinced that Michigan would have won if the error had not been committed, but it is reasonable to suppose that the half would have been ended before Garnaas kicked the field goal."

Another contention of the Michigan fans was that the drop kick was in fact not a drop kick at all, but merely an ordinary run-of-the-mine punt. Maj. Griffith dismissed this preposterously with the terse statement:

"The ball was drop kicked, not punted."

He said he formed this judgment through a study of the motion pictures of the game and from statements of responsible witnesses. Also, he said, there were only 11 Minnesota men in the vicinity of the play, not 12, as some had claimed.

The only known copy of the first printed collection of the laws of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, printed at Cambridge in 1648, is in the Huntington Library and Art Gallery at San Marino, near Los Angeles, Cal.

TIGERS READY TO FACE FAST M'CLAIN TEAM

Hopeful of continuing their splendid record, Circleville high Tigers, plagued by injuries but determined to do their best, were to leave Circleville early this evening for Greenfield to meet McClain high school's powerful Tiger crew.

The game starts at 8 o'clock with a high position in the South Central Ohio league at stake. Circleville has won two contests, Hillsboro and Wilmington falling, with Greenfield and Washington C. H. remaining to play.

Tom Shea and Jim Dade, suffering ankle and hip injuries, respectively, were to accompany the team but neither was to see service.

HUME TO START AGAINST IRISH FOR NAVY CREW

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29—Football fans today were looking forward to the appearance of Hills Hume, Navy's No. 1 fullback, who is a native of Alliance, O.

Weighing 180 pounds, the line cracker will be one of Navy's chief threats Saturday when the sailors try to end Notre Dame's winning streak.

Both squads were expected to arrive in Cleveland tonight and work out at the stadium tomorrow. The Irish coach, Frank Leahy, who has been hospitalized for 17 days, was expected to accompany the team, but no definite word has been received.

TIGER FIELDER SHOT IN FACE WHEN HUNTING

DETROIT, Oct. 29—Detroit Tiger Outfielder Barney McCosky was accidentally shot in the face when hunting pheasants near Bad Axe, Mich., it was disclosed today when he returned home and entered a hospital for treatment.

It was said that two pellets just below his left eye. The wounds, while painful, were not serious and physicians indicated that his eyesight would not be impaired.

The accident occurred, McCosky said, when a hunting companion fired at a pheasant.

Sarringhaus and Lavelli Ready for Badger Game

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29—Two ailing Buckeyes, Paul Sarringhaus, left half, and Dante Lavelli, end, were rounding into shape today and were expected to be ready for Ohio State University's class with Wisconsin in Madison this week.

Following workouts today, the Scarlet and Grey grididers were scheduled to leave Columbus by train at 11:30 o'clock tonight. They are to arrive in Madison at 12:15 p. m. Friday and will stay at the Park Hotel. Friday afternoon they will work out at Wisconsin's Camp Randall stadium.

Ohio will be trying for its sixth straight victory over Wisconsin when the team is also unbeaten and has been tied by Notre Dame.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Herman Frickey, Gopher handyman, was working out today in the left half-back position in place of Bill Daley who may not be able to start for Minnesota against Northwestern Saturday. The Gophers took to the air yesterday with Frickey and Joe Silovich doing the pitching.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Coach Bo McMillen was convinced today that the only way to defeat the Iowa Hawkeyes is to pass them dizzy. In drill, the Indiana Hoosiers worked on a dazzling set of aerial plays with Billy Hillenbrand, Jimmy Dewar and Bob Cowan throwing the ball.

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—That Purdue will take to the air Saturday was indicated today with the appointment of Fred Smerke, end, who has gathered in nine passes for 162 yards this season, as Captain for the Boilermakers in Saturday's Iowa game.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—The Iowa Hawkeyes today set up a 6-2-1 and a 5-3-2-1 defense against Purdue passes coming out of a short punt formation. Backing the line in yesterday's defensive drill were Chuck Ucknes, Tommy Farmer and Jim Youel with Ted Curran in the safety spot.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 29—Calumet Farm's receipts from Whirlaway, the world's greatest money winner, today stood at $538,000 after the famous horse picked up $10,000 for taking a lonesome "walker" victory in the Pimlico Special.

With Alsab withdrawn to compete in Saturday's $25,000 added Westchester Handicap at Empire City, Whirly went to the post under Jockey George Woolf and ran the first one-horse race in Maryland's history and the largest "walker" in turf records.

The official timing for the mile and three sixteenths special was a buggy horse 2:05 4.

Gov. BRICKER'S RECORD Gives you the PROOF

Ohio has more factories in war work than any other state. State business has been decently and economically handled. Expenses have been reduced, no matter how political tricksters attempt to juggle the figures. State money has been used to serve the public, not to pay political debts. State taxes have been kept low and no new or increased taxes are needed. A $40,000,000 inherited deficit has been paid off and a $20,000,000 surplus laid by for the taxpayers. Local governments have received a larger share of state money than in any other state. Honesty, efficiency and economy in state government have set a new mark in Ohio history.

There's the record Governor Bricker has made. Show your approval and insure continuation of this sort of government. Go to the polls on Nov. 3 and

FIGHTERS NOW IN ARMY DRAW HONOR RATINGS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—Boxers in the service will be placed in a special "honorary division" and ratings in the future will be made on a basis of a fighter's active performances, said President Abe J. Greene of the National Boxing Association, as that body's final list of ratings, based on the dictums of individual commissions.

There are no radical changes in the last list of ratings, compiled under the direction of Fred J. Saddy of Milwaukee, chairman of the championship committee.

Only change sees Manuel Ortiz as bantamweight king because of his victory over Lou Salica. Based on contests up till October 19, the ratings still consider Bob Pastor the No. 1 "out-of-service" contender for Sgt. Joe Louis' heavyweight title. Pastor retired from the ring for the duration this week.

MODERN SAVAGERY

THE WAR lately has seemed to be entering a phase of horror unknown heretofore in modern times, except among savages. It seems worse than the savagery of primitive tribes, because it is perpetrated by civilized nations, or at least by people representing such nations. The European Nazis and the Asiatic Japs both seem, in their present behavior, to have reverted to the ethical standards of a thousand years ago.

Such reversion is seen especially in the treatment of prisoners. Hitler has been uttering threats lately suggesting far more horrible barbarities than anything yet practiced in this war. The Japs may be still worse. But not so much is expected of them, in ethical conduct, as is ordinarily assumed in the case of Europeans.

The roots of all these savage practices and threats are doubtless in human nature generally, and might be described as natural forces of evil rising up in times of stress and peril. But really civilized nations at least try to keep such forces under control, even in warfare. And it must be said of the Allied Nations in this war that so far they seem to have succeeded fairly well.

But how long the Britons, Americans and Russians can maintain their ethical principles of warfare depends on whether the Germans and Japanese will restrain their own leaders and fighting men. A general dog-fight, with no barbarities barred would threaten the downfall of modern civilization.

AIDING RUSSIA

C LAIRE BOOTHE LUCE, who is running for Congress in Connecticut, and is perhaps the most interesting Congressional candidate of this year's crop, has the final answer to those timid souls, if any are left, who are afraid to aid Russia because of that country's communistic system. She says:

"We must give all-out aid to Russia. But I no more believe in scrapping our economic system in this country because heroic Communist Russia is our ally in Europe than I believe in agitating for a King and Queen in America because Great Britain is our ally, or in scrapping our churches and urging all Americans to build pagodas and become Confucians because equally heroic China is our greatest and strongest ally in Asia."

WASHINGTON — Something will have to be done soon regarding the strained relations between the Russians and the British, or the entire war effort may be impaired.

This is one of the chief pieces of advice which Willkie and his party brought back to Washington from Moscow. How bitterly Josef Stalin feels toward the British over failure to establish a second front was revealed very clearly at a banquet in Moscow in the presence of the British Ambassador.

With the Ambassador seated at the same table, Stalin remarked that although the United States had tried to send Russia some excellent equipment, it was stopped in Scotland, and inferior equipment sent on instead. Stalin expressed the blunt hope that the United States would not send war goods via Scotland or England anymore. Stalin apparently did not care very much that the British Ambassador heard his remarks—probably because he already had told the British Ambassador a thing or two in no uncertain terms.

The Russians also appeared to resent the fact that the United States had sent no one of major political or diplomatic stature as Ambassador to Russia or on an official mission.

W. Averell Harriman, who accompanied Churchill as the representative of the United States last Summer, apparently was not considered of major stature. The Russians did not give him too much attention. Also they did not seem particularly impressed with Harry Hopkins when he flew to Moscow.

They knew, of course, that Hopkins was close to the President. But they did not regard him as of the same stature as Foreign Minister Molotov, who visited Washington on an official mission last Summer, or as Ex-Foreign Minister Litvinov, now permanently established in Washington as Ambassador and one of the most distinguished figures in the history of the Soviet.

Men comparable to Litvinov and Molotov would be Cordell Hull and Secretary of War Stimson, and in their absence the Russians have felt slighted at having Harriman and Hopkins sent to them.

DEMS CONGRATULATE REPS

There was high glee in the galleries recently when Representative William T. Pfeiffer, Republican of New York, took the floor to "thank" the Democratic National Congressional Committee for a letter it had sent him, congratulating him on his primary victory and promising support in the general election.

"This is doubtless the first time your great committee has been so magnanimous as to place its facilities at the disposal of a Republican," Pfeiffer remarked, with a grandiloquent bow to his Democratic colleagues. "Believe me, gentlemen of the majority, I am very, very grateful."

In high confusion, white-thatched Reps.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Transforming scrap into fighting equipment is necessary at present but it isn't a constructive use to make of the stuff, points out Henry J. Kaiser, the shipbuilder.

We're learning something, though, he adds. We're discovering that the junk really is valuable, melted and then reused into economically productive machinery.

Henry Kaiser

It's a lot of punk old fragments, not worth salvaging. The war's taught us that it's almost priceless raw material, to turn into guns, armor, et cetera, vitally necessary to lick the enemy with.

Of course, when the conflict's over all this military furniture will degenerate back into scrap, but, by that time, we'll understand what to do with it.

We'll use it to rebuild for peace-time utility, according to Henry Kaiser, and we'll need, he remarks, unlimited quantities of it, for nearly everything on earth will have to be made over, at the existing rate of destruction.

It will be a great era of prosperity, in Henry's opinion — jobs aplenty, a huge demand for everything imaginable and business simply humming. Economists quite generally agree that there'll be a post-war boom for awhile, but a good many of 'em forecast that

Saccharin Harmless And It Has Many Uses

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A FEW weeks ago I stated that the use of saccharin as a substitute for sugar was harmless, even if taken over a long period of time. Since then my mail has been full of inquiries and comments. A typical one comes from "Interested Reader," who encloses a clipping from Emily Post's column as follows:

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"Dear Mrs. Post: As a physician I was much shocked to read your advice that one should learn to like saccharin as a substitute for sugar. Taken in quantity without the supervision of a physician, it can have a very harmful effect.

"Answer: I had not intended to suggest that people take it in quantity, but merely when going to drink tea or coffee in the houses of others, to avoid depleting their supply."

The shocked physician had better look the matter up and get some accurate information so he will get unshocked. At any rate, he had better quit writing to the newspapers while he is in a condition of complete ignorance. Mrs. Post was right the first time.

The English Study

Several years ago I looked it up and found that an English commission of doctors had studied the question at length and came to the conclusion that there was no evidence that saccharin ever did harm, even when taken daily and even in quite large quantities. They interviewed hundreds of saccharin users in all climates.

Experiments on new-born laboratory mice, giving them a twentieth of their body weight in saccharin for twenty consecutive days, did not interfere with their health, growth or long life.

As recently as August 22, 1942, Dr. Walter Bastedo, one of the most respected physicians in New York, wrote to a medical journal: "Many physicians are not fully aware of the non-toxic nature of saccharin and some are fearful about permitting its indiscriminate use.

On Saccharin Committee

"In 1916 I was chairman of a saccharin committee (New York Board of Health) composed of noted chemists such as H. C. Sherman and W. J. Gies. We made an extensive study and came to the conclusion that saccharin is non-toxic, either acute or chronic, for human beings, in any amounts that could ordinarily be consumed. We found an extensive use of saccharin in canned goods, chewing gum, soda water flavors, ginger ale and so on."

The present interest in saccharin arises from its use as a substitute for sugar. In this connection one of my correspondents writes: "You mention saccharin as a sweetener, but fail to warn that it loses its sweetening power when heated. All right in cold foods, but disappointing in coffee."

This is correct. Saccharin is of no use in cooking. The heat of an ordinary cup of coffee, however, in my experience does not affect it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Answer: Many heart murmurs which occur during anemia or after a debilitating illness disappear. There is no necessary relation of heart murmur to high blood pressure.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Details of an elaborate remodeling program for the Grand theatre, costing $12,000, was announced by Walker Euahman, owner.

that you were remiss in your war effort.

The fact remains that, speaking practically, this sort of scrap is not in excess of 20 per cent of all that's available throughout the United States.

The remaining 80 per cent is in plants and factories — outmoded machinery, known as "industrial scrap." Thus far not much has been done toward its collection.

Plants Like Housewives

It seems that big industrial concern can have, thoughtlessly tucked away in its basement, two or three tons of machinery, unused since heaven knows when, as a householder can be equally oblivious of a can-opener on his pantry shelf.

These 80-per centers are now being awakened.

I surmise that scrap collection from the country's households has been so energetically advertised as to have given the average individual an impression t' at the national supply already is about cleaned up.

That's a mistake.

The campaign was a highly creditable one and the nation's scrap collectors greatly appreciate it. Housewives contributed largely.

If you had an unattended lawn mower loose in your dooryard and didn't want to see it next in the guise of a shooting-iron, it behooved you to get it under cover.

If you had an extra jackknife to hide, it was right to put it in your pocket and didn't contribute it to the enemy with.

So does Henry Kaiser,

Pickaway Lodge of Masons was invited to visit Humboldt Lodge of Columbus on November 8 at the annual inspection meeting to see the famous drill team.

Miss Hazel Palm, Corwin street teacher, acted as chairman of the open house event when the addition to Circleville high school and Corwin street building were open for inspection before and after the Greenfield - Circleville football game.

Back to Melting Pots

But scrap? It figures largely in Henry's calculations.

It won't have to be dug up and doctored by chemists and miscellaneous tinkered with to make it usable. It'll just be waiting, in the form of old, wornout artillery and armorplate, to be chucked directly into melting pots, for molding into exactly what's required, in short order.

So does Henry Kaiser,

It's being done in a rush, too before snow flies, where it doesn't fly too soon.

It's important today.

A bit later it'll be more important yet, according to folk like Henry Kaiser and Chairman Wolcott of the Industries Salvage Committee.

I presume that Bob Wolcott hopes to salvage 'em later, as well as right now.

This is one of the chief pieces of advice which Willkie and his party brought back to Washington from Moscow. How bitterly Josef Stalin feels toward the British over failure to establish a second front was revealed very clearly at a banquet in Moscow in the presence of the British Ambassador.

With the Ambassador seated at the same table, Stalin remarked that although the United States had tried to send Russia some excellent equipment, it was stopped in Scotland, and inferior equipment sent on instead. Stalin expressed the blunt hope that the United States would not send war goods via Scotland or England anymore. Stalin apparently did not care very much that the British Ambassador heard his remarks—probably because he already had told the British Ambassador a thing or two in no uncertain terms.

The Russians also appeared to resent the fact that the United States had sent no one of major political or diplomatic stature as Ambassador to Russia or on an official mission.

W. Averell Harriman, who accompanied Churchill as the representative of the United States last Summer, apparently was not considered of major stature. The Russians did not give him too much attention. Also they did not seem particularly impressed with Harry Hopkins when he flew to Moscow.

They knew, of course, that Hopkins was close to the President. But they did not regard him as of the same stature as Foreign Minister Molotov, who visited Washington on an official mission last Summer, or as Ex-Foreign Minister Litvinov, now permanently established in Washington as Ambassador and one of the most distinguished figures in the history of the Soviet.

Men comparable to Litvinov and Molotov would be Cordell Hull and Secretary of War Stimson, and in their absence the Russians have felt slighted at having Harriman and Hopkins sent to them.

DEMS CONGRATULATE REPS

There was high glee in the galleries recently when Representative William T. Pfeiffer, Republican of New York, took the floor to "thank" the Democratic National Congressional Committee for a letter it had sent him, congratulating him on his primary victory and promising support in the general election.

"This is doubtless the first time your great committee has been so magnanimous as to place its facilities at the disposal of a Republican," Pfeiffer remarked, with a grandiloquent bow to his Democratic colleagues. "Believe me, gentlemen of the majority, I am very, very grateful."

In high confusion, white-thatched Reps.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON — Transforming scrap into fighting equipment is necessary at present but it isn't a constructive use to make of the stuff, points out Henry J. Kaiser, the shipbuilder.

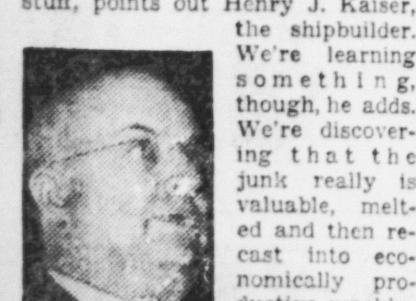

We're learning something, though, he adds. We're discovering that the junk really is valuable, melted and then recast into economically productive machinery.

Heretofore it was a lot of punk old fragments, not worth salvaging. The war's taught us that it's almost priceless raw material, to turn into guns, armor, et cetera, vitally necessary to lick the enemy with.

Of course, when the conflict's over— all this military furniture will degenerate back into scrap, but, by that time, we'll understand what to do with it.

We'll use it to rebuild for peace-time utility, according to Henry Kaiser, and we'll need, he remarks, unlimited quantities of it, for nearly everything on earth will have to be made over, at the existing rate of destruction.

It will be a great era of prosperity, in Henry's opinion—jobs aplenty, a huge demand for everything imaginable and business quite humbling. Economists quite generally agree that there'll be a post-war boom for awhile, but a good many of 'em forecast that it'll blow up ultimately, to be followed by prolonged depression.

Their judgment is that a big war isn't possibly end otherwise. Henry, however, insists that the imperative urge for production (or reproduction) will take perfectly good care of us, with "sound economic statesmanship," which he's convinced will be available. He is, in short, an enthusiastic optimist, whom it's comforting to listen to in the midst of so much pessimism.

Back to Melting Pots

But scrap?

It figures largely in Henry's calculations.

It won't have to be dug up and doctored by chemists and miscellaneous tinkered with to make it usable. It'll just be waiting, in the form of old, worn-out artillery and armorplate, to be chucked directly into melting pots, for molding into exactly what's required, in short order.

I surmise that scrap collection from the country's households has been so energetically advertised as to give the average individual an impression that the national supply already is about cleaned up.

That's a mistake.

It's important today.

A bit later it'll be more important yet, according to folks like Henry Kaiser and Chairman Wolcott of the Industries Salvage Committee.

I presume that Bob Wolcott hopes to salvage 'em later, as well as right now.

So does Henry Kaiser.

Saccharin Harmless And It Has Many Uses

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A FEW weeks ago I stated that the use of saccharin as a substitute for sugar was harmless, even if taken over a long period of time. Since then my mail has been full of inquiries and comments. A typical one comes from "Interested Reader," who encloses a clipping from Emily Post's column as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Post: As a physician I was much shocked to read your advice that one should learn to like saccharin as a substitute for sugar. Taken in quantity without the supervision of a physician, it can have a very harmful effect."

The present interest in saccharin arises from its use as a substitute for sugar. In this connection one of my correspondents writes: "You mention saccharin as a sweetener, but fail to warn that it loses its sweetening power when heated. All right in cold foods, but disappointing in coffee."

This is correct. Saccharin is of no use in cooking. The heat of an ordinary cup of coffee, however, in my experience does not affect it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. Detroit, Mich.—Is it possible to cure a heart murmur? What relation does a heart murmur have to high blood pressure?

Answer: Many heart murmurs which occur during anemia or after a debilitating illness disappear. There is no necessary relation of heart murmur to high blood pressure.

Editor's Note: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by mail. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For an additional 10 cents, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation—Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Disease," "Home Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

As recently as August 22, 1942, Dr. Walter Bastedo, one of the most respected physicians in New York, wrote to a medical journal:

"Many physicians are not fully aware of the non-toxic nature of saccharin and are fearful about permitting its indiscriminate use."

Saccharin Committee

"In 1916 I was chairman of a saccharin committee (New York Board of Health) composed of noted chemists such as H. C. Sherman and W. J. Gies. We made an extensive study and came to the conclusion that saccharin is non-toxic, either acute or chronic, for human beings, in any amounts that could ordinarily be consumed. We found an extensive use of saccharin in canned goods, chewing gum, soda water flavors, ginger ale and so on."

The present interest in saccharin arises from its use as a substitute for sugar. In this connection one of my correspondents writes: "You mention saccharin as a sweetener, but fail to warn that it loses its sweetening power when heated. All right in cold foods, but disappointing in coffee."

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR
FRAN HOPED maliciously that Toinette had forgotten the appointment, that she would be confused and condescending, which she would report gleefully to Mary.

But Toinette did none of these things. She pulled Fran impulsively into the group of actors surrounding her.

"I want you all to know Mrs. Frances Bond—who saved my life yesterday."

Fran saw the picture of the prince—and of many other "admirers," as well as celebrities from every walk of life. All of them were inscribed, some with feeling, some with taste and reticence, but all with admiration.

Fran's attitude toward Toinette was undergoing a change in spite of herself. She had always thought of her as beautiful and dumb and let it go at that. She began to watch her now. Perhaps there was something in the "spark of genius" idea. This frail, exquisite creature with her haunting, warm voice, her dark, velvet eyes was simple, friendly, yet there was a certain fascination about her. It was impossible to take one's eyes off her, and impossible not to let her hold her at the luncheon table.

"If he were drafted—if he HAD to go—it would be all right," she was thinking mutinously as the group strolled across the movie lot toward Toinette's bungalow. "But when he has a chance to stay at home, and still wants to go—I'd like to break his stubborn neck!"

"Don't you like my cot?" Fran came back to herself with a jerk. She and Toinette were standing before the bungalow, the others having gone on. "You looked at me and scowled!" laughed the star.

"I was thinking," Fran grinned wanly. "And it's not becoming to me."

She admired the quaint little bungalow set in the privacy of a circle of young eucalyptus trees.

Then they went inside. Fran caught her breath with an unfamiliar feeling of awe. It might have been a palace courtroom, so exquisitely was every detail of its decoration scaled to its size that it seemed as spacious as all that, a harbor of luxury, secure and distant from an imperfect world.

Toinette sank on one low divan and waved Fran to another. Her maid hurried in with a silver service, and Toinette poured the coffee.

Fran sneaked another look around—at the white fur rug on the shining floor, at the silk tapestries, whose age-old colors reflected the brighter shades of low bowls of flowers on delicately carved taboors and tables. Her gaze fixed on a richly lustered screen, angled behind her divan.

"You like my screen?" Toinette asked.

Fran picked up her sandwich and bit thoughtfully into it. She watched the cars pulling into the circular curving beaded them and the car-hops hurrying back and forth with their trays. Slowly the tense brooding went out of her eyes. She took a deep breath, and grinned back at Toinette. "I don't," she cried. "I guess the whole thing was just cheerful grousing on my part, until I went into that cage, of Toinette Vaughn's. But boy, did she have me burning with a clear blue flame! Did I say that woman was dumb? She's terrific."

Mary waved at a grateful and happy Fran as the latter left her at the plant a few minutes later. But as the car drew away, Mary's eyes dimmed suddenly with helpless tears. She had wanted Fran to investigate the glamorous actress. Well—she'd gotten the report!

One-Minute Test

1. Speaking of flags, what is meant by an ensign, a standard, a color?

2. Does the Hudson river empty into Hudson Bay?

3. What is the only mammal that can fly under its own power?

Words of Wisdom

In all departments of activity, to have one thing to do, and then to do it, is the secret of success.

Hints on Etiquette

Answer your friends' letters as promptly as possible nowadays.

Everyone is more or less unhappy about the world situation, but you should, however, beware of imposition. Born on this date a child will enjoy much good fortune and popularity, fame being achieved early. The disposition will be generous and magnanimous, but liable to some exploitation.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. An ensign is a flag flown on ships; a standard is a flag carried by mounted or mortared units; a color is a flag carried by unmounted units.

2. No, Hudson Bay is in Canada. The Hudson river empties into upper New York Bay.

3. The bat.

Men With Collateral Dependents Face Call In December

DRAFT BOARD RECLASSIFYING DEFERRED GROUP

Married Men May Be Inducted In January If Teen Age Bill Is Defeated

REGULATIONS ARE CITED

Change In Status Since Pearl Harbor Has No Effect On Soldiers-To-Be

Pickaway county men who are otherwise eligible for Army duty and who are now supporting collateral dependents, such as mother, father, brother, sister, divorced wife or children to whose support they are contributing while being maintained in a home other than the registrant's can prepare now to enter the service in December.

Selective Service board said Thursday that it is beginning to reclassify men in Class 3-A, Category 2, which includes all of this group.

"There being few registrants in this category," the board declared, "it is expected that all of the group will be used to fill a December call."

The board stated further that unless 18 and 19 year old registrants become eligible for service soon it will be necessary to use married men with dependent wives to fill the January call. It will be necessary, however, to start reclassification of this group in the near future. Registrants will be placed in 1-A and sent for physical examination, but will not be ordered to report for induction until orders are received from state headquarters to induct men of this group.

Should 18 and 19 year olds be available for service at this time, it will postpone induction of married men for two or three months thereafter.

The term "married men" as referred to means men who were married prior to registration and at a time when selection for military service was imminent.

Selective Service board pointed out also that any change of status occurring since September 7 will make no difference in determining a man's classification, meaning that children born after that date cannot be considered dependents so far as classification is concerned.

Children born prior to September 7 can be considered when classification is finally made.

Draft board is continuing to send notices to men who will be sent for induction in November. The November contingent will go near the middle of the month, more than a week earlier than recent induction groups have been called in.

Two groups of men accepted at Columbus last week will leave Circleville next week for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., at the conclusion of their 14-day furloughs. The groups represent the October quota from the county, 76 men being accepted.

With the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.—St. Luke 6:38.

Harry E. Weill, East High street, remains in his home after being stricken with sciatica. He had expected to be permitted to leave his residence this week, but recovery has been slower than anticipated.

Shelby and McCrady restaurant, which has been located in South Court street for nearly 30 years, is being removed to East Main street in the room formerly occupied by the Dunlop tire shop.

The voting booth for precinct 3A has been moved from the Crites Milling Company's office on South Court street to the Dan Dunn Grocery on West Mill St. —ad.

Mrs. Vance Crites and son were removed Thursday from Berger hospital to their home in Stoutsburg.

Dr. P. C. Routzahn, will be out of town Thursday and Friday, attending the annual refresher course sponsored by the Ohio Osteopathic association of physicians and surgeons. —ad.

Schools of Circleville and Pickaway county will be dismissed Friday so teachers and administrators may attend the Central Ohio Teachers' association meeting.

More than 50 members of Pickaway county Democratic central and executive committees met for a dinner meeting Wednesday evening in Hanley's tearoom. Carl C. Leist, executive chairman, presided. Judge Meeker Terwilliger spoke briefly during a discussion of the election next Tuesday.

PENNDLETON TO FACE CHARGES OF KIDNAPING

Charges of kidnapping were filed Thursday in Columbus against Charles Pendleton, 35, of Mingo, West Virginia, after he hauled Clarence Walstrom Jr., Columbus, through part of the capital city Tuesday night and then forced him from his automobile south of Columbus on Route 23.

Pendleton was arrested at 1:25 a. m. Wednesday by Patrolman Turney Ross and Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious as he was driving toward Circleville on Route 23.

Pendleton slipped into Walstrom's car when the driver stopped at Spring and High streets, Columbus, for a traffic light. By pretending he carried a revolver in his pocket, Pendleton is charged with forcing Walstrom to drive through the northeastern part of Columbus, and finally to the south where the driver was ordered from his car.

Columbus police department told local authorities that Pendleton had served time in West Virginia and in Washington, D. C., for box car burglary.

VOTING PLACE CHANGED

Voters of Third Ward precinct B of Circleville will cast their ballots next Tuesday at the Dan Dunn store room, West Mill street, instead of at the H. M. Crites Milling company office, South Court street. Russell Imler, secretary of the election board, said Thursday that the Crites office will not be available, thus the change. The new voting precinct will be well marked.

SCIOTO BOARD ASKS SUPPORT OF SCHOOL LEVY

Scioto township board of education appealed Thursday to residents of its district for support for renewal of a three-mille levy on taxes for school purposes.

Robert D. Shauck, superintendent of the school at Commercial Point, said that the levy is not an addition to the tax duplicate, because for years it has been passed by voters of the township and has provided money which has been used in financing the school.

Mr. Shauck said that the only exception to his statement was in the Fall of 1941 when the board had sufficient accumulated money to operate for one year without the special levy, so did not ask for it. However, it will be needed for operation in 1943.

One year of operation without the three-mille levy, from January 1, 1942 to January 1, 1943, will consume the surplus which was on hand in the Fall of 1941 because of increasing costs in salaries of employees and in supplies and equipment. Income from taxation was about $5,200 less from January 1, 1942 to January 1, 1943, because the schools of the township were operated without the three mill levy, Mr. Shauck said.

Parents of the girls asked Sheriff Charles Radcliff to continue to keep Bruce Brown, 18; George Welch, 18, and Archie Ison, 17 in jail until they can learn what charges can be put against them. Brown is from Plain City while Welch and Ison are from Columbus. All three youths are native Kentuckians.

Sheriff's deputies were told that the youths, driving a car which carried a Columbus dealer's tags, had brought the three girls from Kentucky to Ohio last Friday. They were with them several days, authorities were told.

TWO KENTUCKY GIRLS RELEASED; BOY TRIO HELD

Two Kentucky girls found in an automobile parked at Gold Cliff park early this week with three youths were returned to their homes Wednesday by their parents. The girls were Marie Trivette and Juanita Miller, both 16 and both of Pikeville, Ky.

Parents of the girls asked Sheriff Charles Radcliff to continue to keep Bruce Brown, 18; George Welch, 18, and Archie Ison, 17 in jail until they can learn what charges can be put against them. FARMERS' INSTITUTE TO BE STAGED AT LAURELVILLE

Laurelville Community is planning a Farmers' Institute to be conducted in five sessions on December 9 and 10. Speakers will be William L. Manahan of Defiance and Mrs. Hazel Kempton of near Williamsport.

The institute dates were selected at a meeting held at the home of Irving Beougher, president of the institute association. Present for the meeting were Russell Anderson, vice president; Mrs. Jay Karshner, secretary; Mrs. Joe Archer, hostess, and the executive committee, Mrs. Dorothy Van Curen and Mrs. N. E. Bowers. A program committee consisting of Mrs. Grace Delong, Miss Celesta Hoy, Mrs. Thelma Hinton, Mrs. Grace Anderson and Mrs. Claude Chilcott was appointed.

Men, Women! Old at 40, 50, 60! Get Pep

Feel Years Younger, Full of Vim

Don't blame exhausted, worn-out, run-down feelings on your age. Thousands amazed at what a little pep can do. Contains general vitamins, including iron, calcium phosphate, Vitamin B, A, Thiamine, Biotin, and other vitamins. 100 tablets cost only 89¢. Stop feeling pepless, old and tired. Start feeling pepful and younger, this very day. At all drug stores everywhere. In Circleville, at Gallaher Drug Store.

HOW ABOUT THOSE FEET? ARE THEY GOOD OR BAD?

Bad Feet bring pain, and pain brings early lines to the face.
